To whom it may concern:

Our pro-family organization, MassResistance, has been defending the attacks on the traditional family, children, religion, and society for over 20 years. We are headquartered in Massachusetts and have activists and supporters in all 50 states and over a dozen foreign countries.

I have known Greg Quinlan and followed his pro-family activism for several years. He is a valuable asset in the culture war battles. In particular, he has always been an articulate and powerful advocate for the ex-gay community. For example, this past August there was a public hearing before the Massachusetts Legislature on a frightening bill being pushed by the LGBT lobby that would ban counseling for youths on sexual orientation and gender identity issues. Greg traveled to Boston to testify with us against the bill. His testimony was passionate and right to the point, and completely undercut the disinformation being given by the other side. We were very glad to have him there with us!

In addition, his past volunteer work with the homosexual Human Rights Campaign organization gives him an insight into how the other side operates that most people on our side don't comprehend. I am glad that he is by our side in this battle!

Sincerely,

Brian Camenker
Executive Director
